Ethics & Law Enforcement

A Unique Program for Basic & In-Service Training

"There is something in corruption which, like a jaundiced eye, transfers the color of itself to the object that it looks upon, and sees everything stained and impure."
Thomas Paine

The MPM Group, Inc., a nationally recognized and CJA approved consulting firm, is proud to introduce their newest and certainly most unique law enforcement training program exclusively designed for federal/state law enforcement training facilities. Presentations are made by Due Diligence and Ethics experts as well as former federal and/or state law enforcement personnel who have themselves either been federally prosecuted or removed (fired) for official misconduct and are now willing to share their personal experiences with current federal or state LEO.

This program is specifically designed to offer a relevant and real-time "wake-up call" to sworn personnel about the myriad life altering consequences law enforcement personnel face when convicted of official misconduct.

Former sworn law enforcement personnel will candidly discuss the missed "red-flags" in their particular criminal or misconduct cases as well as the aftermath of their removal from the job while emphasizing the legal, financial and emotional cost of being involved in "on-the-job" misconduct.

Currently, MPM offers presentations from the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA), the United States Secret Service (USSS) as well as various state and local Police Departments.

MPM does not offer presentations from, nor do we employ the services of, former LEO who were engaged in egregious misconduct calling for more than a Level-20 Federal Sentencing Guideline Range (33-41 months).
